Callender's Colored Minstrels Manager Staub is to be congratulated upon securing this noted company, for two erformances at the opera-house, on Monday and Tuesday next. That they will meet with large financial success is inevitable. This company comes under the immediate management of Mr. Howard Spear, the gentleman who so successfully directed the European tour of the colored minstrels then controlled by J. H. Haverly. We clip the following from the Houston (Texas) Post, of October 14th:

"Pillot's Opera-house was crowded last night, both up stairs and down, to greet the Callender Colored Minstrels. The performance was first-class in every respect. The most remarkable feature about the Callender Minstrels is, where the nanagement are able to secure colored peomanagement are able to secure colored peo-ple possessing talent so far above the aver-age of their race, and the talent required for minstrelsy is of no ordinary calibre. The company is a full one in point of num-bers, and the entertainment they give is re-plete with new and original specialties and comicalities. The music as a special feature is excellent. The orchestra is good and the singing particularly fine, the company havsinging particularly fine, the company having with it this year an excellent quartette. Alex Hunter, in his imitations of steam-boats, calliopes, saw mill, etc., adds a novel feature, and his imitations are very wonder-ful and were well received last night by the audience. Big Mouth McIntosh is a minstrel team within himself, and is decidedly the leading individual attraction of the show.
